

Friends of Felines Spotlighthed on KPTS Channel 8

Urban Rescuers
A Revealing Documentary About
the Feral Cat Dilemma

Sunday, April 29, 2:30 p.m.
KPTS, Ch. 8

"Urban Rescuers" profiles a group of animal welfare crusaders who, using Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR), work to feed, trap, sterilize, and care for feral (undomesticated) cats. This award-winning documentary interviews leading animal advocates both in favor of and opposed to TNR.

Help improve the lives of feral cats.
Contact Friends of Felines
(316) 772-0329
www.felinefriendsks.com

On Sunday, April 29, KPTS-Channel 8, the local PBS station, aired a revealing documentary about the feral cat dilemma. "Urban Rescuers" profiles a group of fiercely dedicated animal welfare crusaders in Los Angeles who, using Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR), work tirelessly to feed, trap, sterilize, and care for feral cat colonies living outdoors. Examining the ethical dilemma presented by feral cats, this award-winning documentary interviews leading animal advocates both in favor of, and opposed to TNR. Lynn Stephan, a past board member of the Kansas Humane Society contacted Ray Huff about the program and has arranged at the close of the show to encourage viewers to contact Friends of Felines, who she called "a respected feral cat rescue group in Sedgwick, Kansas." Many thanks to Lynn for facilitating our involvement in the show. It's a great opportunity to tell the feral cat story, create interest/involvement in Friends of Felines, and get other areas of Kansas interested in T-N-R.